Noble Device Technologies Receives $8 Million Venture Funding
Tuesday March 7, 1:29 pm ET

NEWARK, N.J.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--March 7, 2006--Noble Device Technologies Corp. ("Noble") has raised $8 million in Series A equity financing to expand development of its unique visible/infrared image sensor. The round was led by Matrix Partners with equal participation from North Bridge Venture Partners.

Clifford King, Noble's President and CEO, said, "We are thrilled to attract top-tier financiers Matrix and North Bridge, which have a long track record of building strong companies. Their capital and expertise will help us augment our team to further develop and deliver our imaging products."

Co-Founder and CTO Conor Rafferty said, "With patent-protected technology, a strong engineering team and savvy venture backing, Noble plans to bring infrared imaging to Main Street."

Bryan Ackland, a pioneer in imaging chips, will serve as Noble's Vice President of Engineering.

Stan Reiss of Matrix Partners, and Jeffrey McCarthy of North Bridge Venture Partners, will join King and Rafferty on Noble's Board of Directors. Reiss said, "Noble Device has an outstanding team with diverse backgrounds that have attracted customer and partner attention."

Noble will relocate part of its operations to the Boston area while retaining facilities in New Jersey.

Noble is developing imaging arrays with unique spectral capabilities. Its technological roots are at Bell Laboratories. Early growth was supported by the National Science Foundation, the U.S. Air Force, and the New Jersey Economic Development Authority.
